

BRITISH GAIN IN THREE BATTLES FOUGHT IN DAY

Launch Successful Series of Attacks Against Enemy's Lines Near Pozieres.

(By the International News Service.)
London, July 27.—A terrific battle raged all day along the five-mile front from Pozieres to Longueval, the British registering further gains. Three separate battles were fought on this small front, according to news from the battlefield tonight, forming a strong operation against the German third line.

At the northern tip of today's battle front northeast of Pozieres the British operated beyond the foremost fortifications of the German third system, making resistance of the strongest kind.

Toward the south, however, they made considerable progress, driving the Germans from the eastern and northeastern sections of the hard-fought Delville wood and again penetrating into Longueval.

Street fighting is now proceeding in the village, the operation being a repetition of the action which resulted in the capture of Pozieres.

The bitter fighting of the day took place on a small strip of 300 yards northeast of Pozieres, where the British sought to strengthen their line by the consolidation of a trench in which German detachments had held out for weeks.

This trench interposed across the high road to Bapaume and stands on high ground, giving command of a considerable stretch of the battlefield.

It also is on the most direct route to the dominating heights of Martinpuich, about two miles away.

About 500 miles lie between the advance guard of the Russian army west of Erzingan and Constantinople, but the forces under Gen. Udenitch are only 260 miles from the Mediterranean Sea.

The Russians are now moving in force against Kemakh and Karakhisar, west and northwest of Erzingan.

EXPERTS LINK EPIDEMIC WITH MOSQUITO PLAGUE

(By the International News Service.)
New York, July 27.—Health experts now see some connection between the plague of infantile paralysis and the plague of mosquitoes. Never since the modern methods of sanitation were advanced have there been so many mosquitoes noticed, especially around New York City.

It has been the contention of the leading specialists that infantile paralysis is not spread through the blood, but the fact that the plague has not diminished, despite the efforts being made in all quarters, is attributed by a large part of the public to the poisoned bites of the mosquitoes.

Wilson Backer and Former Athlete of Note.

(By the International News Service.)
New York, July 27.—John L. Desaulles, famous Yale quarterback of a decade ago, was sued for divorce today in the Supreme Court by Blanca Errazuriz Vergara, the Chilean heiress, whom he married while engaged in business in Chile.

Desaulles was recalled from Chile by Wm. F. McCombs during Wilson's Presidential campaign. He organized the College Men's League, enlisting 70,000 graduates and students in the fight for Wilson's election.

After the inauguration President Wilson appointed him Minister to Uruguay. The Senate confirmed the appointment but Desaulles resigned to engage in the real estate business.

Mrs. Desaulles' father is one of the richest men in the Andes. One of her uncles was a former President of Chile. Desaulles married his Chilean bride on December 14, 1911.

In her divorce complaint Mrs. Desaulles alleges her husband has accompanied two different women to various cities in the United States. The "other women" are said to be well-known Broadway dancers.

BABY DEATHS ON INCREASE

Stomach Disorder Epidemic
Worse Than Infantile Paralysis,
Say Health Officials.

By ANDREW R. KELLEY.

With twenty-nine baby deaths within the past three weeks and hundreds of infant sufferers from stomach disorders, District health officials declared yesterday that the city was facing an epidemic much graver than the infantile paralysis.

To the prolonged heat and the carelessness of many mothers in not giving the proper medical attention to children when stricken is attributed the high mortality record from diarrheal troubles—an increase of nearly 60 per cent over 1915.

"There have been only seven cases of infantile paralysis, no deaths and three of these cases are reported well," added the doctor, "whereas every day children are coming down with diarrheal complaint, incidental to summer and irregularities of diet, and deaths are frequent."

The heat of the present week may bring the mortality record up much higher.

The department yesterday gave a special warning to mothers to watch the milk that is given to children and to immediately seek medical aid if a child shows lassitude.

When a child is stricken it should be taken to a physician at once. If money is not available the physicians to the poor gladly will furnish treatment, as will the different clinics throughout the city.

HUGHES HEARS BORDER PLEAS

Urged by Senator Fall to Advocate Intervention in Mexico in Speech.

(By the International News Service.)
New York, July 27.—If Charles E. Hughes fails to advocate intervention in Mexico in his speech accepting the Republican Presidential nomination next Monday, it will not be through lack of appeals from United States Senator A. B. Fall, of New Mexico, and former Charge d'Affaires Nelson P. O'Shaughnessy.

Senator Fall during an hour's conference with Mr. Hughes at Hotel Astor today supplemented with emphasis arguments already advanced by Messrs. Wilson and O'Shaughnessy.

Senator Fall is understood to have described graphically the result of his personal observations in Mexico.

He drew a vivid picture of the ousting of Huerta, the recognition first of Villa, and then of Carranza, and the anarchy prevailing during the regime of all.

Senator Fall brought along startling data he had procured during his visits to and over the border indicating that no stable government could be had in Mexico until the United States acts in conformity with his resolution now before Congress and sends an army into Mexico.

Czar's Forces Close in on Brody, Point Commanding
Way to Objective.

(By the International News Service.)
London, July 27.—The Russian forces in Volhynia are closing in on Brody, the key position to Lemberg.

Heavy fighting is now in progress south of Leszka, twelve miles north of Brody, and in the vicinity of Radaivill, six miles to the northeast of the stronghold.

Brody lies in Northeastern Galicia and is regarded as one of the strongest points on the line guarding Lemberg. Its fall would force a general retirement of the Teutonic forces in Galicia.

Austria admits officially that the Teutons have withdrawn before the heavy attacks around Brody by superior Russian forces, but asserts that heavy losses have been inflicted on the foe.

Vienna states the advantages won by the Russians are "insignificant."

Meantime the Austrians have launched an offensive north of the Prislup Ridge in Southern Bukovina.

They have forced a passage of the Czarnyermosz River, capturing the height beyond.

Counter attacks by the Russians have been repulsed in this sector.

100 Degree Temperature
Moving Toward Coast from Mississippi Section.

A heat wave which may reach the 100 degree point is wending its way toward the Atlantic seaboard and is due in Washington within the next twenty-four hours, according to weather bureau reports.

In Chicago, Des Moines, Springfield and Indianapolis 100 degrees was registered, while at Davenport, Iowa, 102 was recorded. The health departments of the several cities in this heat zone have issued precautionary warnings to citizens to be cautious about overexertion and the use of stimulants, particularly alcoholic beverages. Heavy consumption of meats and other heat producing foods are to be tabooed if one would enjoy the advantages of "safety first."

MILITIA NOT READY TO MOVE TO BORDER

"No District troops will move next week," said Capt. Horace Hobbs, U. S. A., mustering officer at Camp Ordway, when questioned last night about the reports that the militia would leave for the Mexican border August 1.

"The organizations cannot move at that time because they would not be up to minimum strength in men, or fully equipped," said Capt. Hobbs. "Orders to report the troops ready for movement when the units are up to minimum strength are still in effect."

It is believed the announcement that the troops would not move until after pay day, probably Wednesday, was confused, and taken as a promise to move after pay day.

CROWDS AT LONG BEACH SEE ROSE-LADEN SURF

(By the International News Service.)
New York, July 27.—Hundreds of rose bushes in crates floated ashore at Long Beach Wednesday afternoon, giving rise to the belief that a ship had been wrecked and broken up.

When it was learned no wreck had occurred some one volunteered the information that the bushes were Holland rose bushes, normally worth at least $1 apiece, and that their importation into this country is forbidden because of some insect which lodges in them.

It was reported that the detectives detailed as car guards were all members of the once famous "strong arm" squad.

E. A. Maher, assistant general manager of the company, made a direct appeal to Mr. Lord after Chief Inspector Schmittberger had refused his request to assign uniformed men to the cars. Maher asserted that a majority of the employees wanted to remain at work, but were being intimidated by Tonkers strikers, and that patrons were deterred from riding on the cars by fear of attacks by the strikers.
